Suppose we agree to let Thaw alone for awhile. He'll quietly disappear from that little Canadian jail some night and turn up in Europe. Nobody wants him back in the asylum now except Jerome, who put him there, and Evelyn, who became a mother during the five years
that Harry was locked up.

Dumb Chills and Fever.

Douglasville, Tex.—"Five years ago I was caught in the rain at the wrong time," writes Miss Edna Rutherford, of Douglasville, "and from that time was taken with dumb chills and fevers, and suffered more than I can tell. I tried everything that I thought would help, and had four different doctors, but got no relief, so I began to take Cardui.
Now I feel better than in many months." Cardui does one thing and does it well. That's the secret of its 50 years of success. As a tonic
there is nothing in the drug store like it. As a remedy for women's ills, it has no equal. Try it. Price $1.00.

Discerning Thought.

Thoughts put on paper are nothing more than footprints to the sand; you see the way the man has gone, but to know what he saw on his walk you want his eyes.—Schopenhauer.

INTERESTED IN HOME TEAM

Argument as to Object of Fans at Baseball Game Is Ended With a Rush and Yell.

"I tell you," the man with the goatee was saying, as there came a slight lull in the game, "what brings the fans here is the certainty that they're going to see a good game of ball. They want their own team to win, of course, but it's the fine play that—"

"Bosh!" interrupted the man with the white hair and black eyebrows;
"they don't care a darn about the fine play. All they want is to see the home team win. I've seen them applaud the other team's errors when they helped to—"

"Not! They cheer a brilliant play, no matter which side makes it. There are 20,000 people here today, not because they are stuck on seeing their own side win, but because—"

Just then everybody rose to his feet, uttered a wild yell, and began a rush for the outside.

Only one man was out, and a sure striker was at the bat—
But the man on third had sneaked
in with the winning run. The home team had won.

Wifely Sarcasm.

"Mr. Bibbles, just managed to get the front door open. As he steered somewhat uncertainly toward the stairs he tripped on a toy train belonging to his little son and measured
his length on the floor.

Mrs. Bibbles rushed down the stairs,
having been awakened from her slumbers by the noise of Mr. Bibbles' fall.
"Are you hurt, dear?" she asked her lord.

"No, m'dear," answered Mr. Bibbles, looking up at her stupidly as he lay on the floor. "Not 'tall, m'dear.
And just because I happened to take one too many, don't call me down."

"Umph!" exclaimed Mrs. Bibbles.
"It appears to me that you are already down."

NO DANGER.

Mr. Roach—Help! Help! Mr. Bug is drowning!

Mr. Bug—Save your breath, Mr. Roach, I'm only taking my regular milk bath.

Keeping Informed.

"Two years ago you told me the Woggs car was the best automobile in the world."

"Yes."

"And now you say the Boggs is the only one worth having."

"I get my information direct. The salesman who sold me the Woggs car has gone to work for the Boggs people."

Bad Weather.

Farmer Halback—This dry weather's burnin' up the corn.

Mr. Clitman—Those clouds over yonder look as if they would bring a heavy rain.

Farmer Halback—Yes, an' the dermed rain will spile the sweet potatoes.—Puck.

Reform.

"What have you done about currency reform?"

"Well," replied the man who is always cheerful, "we've arranged to have it washed and have some elegant new designs; which is surely something toward making the currency
pure and beautiful."

Game Laws.

"Game laws are great institutions,"
said the sportsman. "They prevent many wonderful animals from becoming extinct."

"Yes," replied the cautious person.
"But I'm rather glad they didn't have any when petrodactyls and glyptodons
were hanging around."

A Traitor.

"She was drummed out."

"Expelled from the suffragettes?"
"Yes; they ascertained that she was merely hating to take off weight and not through any real zeal for the cause."

Woman's Love and Man's Love.

"There's just two things that break up many happy homes," observed a philosopher.

"What's them?" inquired a listener.
"Woman's love for dry goods and man's love for wet goods, Ughosh!"

Wrong Kind.

"We had an alarming situation in our family this morning."

"Dear me! What was it?"
"My wife set the clock by mistake for four o'clock instead of seven."

Small Area.

"Biffles is always blowing about his ancestral estates."

"Don't pay any attention to Biffles.
He was born on a fairy tale suburban lot."

NEW WRINKLES FOR WRITERS

Modern Novelists Must Avoid All Such Commonplace Expressions as "He Said" and "She Said."

It is reported that the latest fashion in story writing eliminates the "he said" and the "she said" entirely, and it is added that publishers and editors
give the preference to those writers who can avoid these commonplaces of the old-fashioned standard authors in the greatest variety of ways. For instance, the new style will go something like this:

"Beresford," she cooed.

He did not heed her. He was in one of his black moods. The French clock on the mantel struck 3. It was 7 o'clock.

"Girl," he hissed retrospectively.

She was by his side in a moment.

"Mon ange," she thickly articulated.

"Was Biffles here today?" he brutally intimated.

"Not today," she intermittently enunciated. "Tomorrow."

He comprehended her stammering confusion.

"So this is the way you keep the faith?" he hoarsely satirized. Her head drooped. The chance shot had gone home. He stared at her unsee-ingly. Then ripping a handful of slats from the tawdry gilt chair he flung them savagely at the fauteuil.

"This is the end," she staccatoed
as she lifted the tiger rug by its fluffy tail.

"Sainted Toner, how I suffer!" he moaned morosely. Then hastily drawing off one of his riding boots he reversed it and a huge pebble clattered to the innard floor. Resuming the hoot
he blindly crashed through the high French windows and turned the nearest corner.

For a hither half-hour she stood where she had fallen and awaited his return.

"Gone!" she convulsed.—Cleveland
Plain Dealer.

New Name Every Five Years.

If he lives until he is 21 years old Charles Durant Hearst Elbert Hubbard Sague Maines will get $20,000 and the interest which will accrue on that amount for the next twenty-one years.

The child is the first son of George G. Maines, a real estate operator and leader of the Progressive party of Poughkeepsie, who eloped two years ago with Miss Mao Zimmerman, of Flint, Mich., student at the Glen Eden Seminary in Poughkeepsie.

The youngster will be christened
Charles and at the end of five years the name Durant will be added. He will get $1,000 at that time. Five years later the name Hearst will be added
and another $1,000 will be forthcoming. When he is 15 years old the name Elbert will be added and also another $1,000. When he has reached the age of 20 years the name Hubbard will be added, and when he is 21 Sague will be added. Then he will get $20,000 with accrued interest from his father.

USEFUL ANIMAL

Mr. Nelson, a western farmer, possesses a gentleman hog for which he has refused several hundred dollars.
The hog is broken to the saddle and his owner rides him around the farm
on his daily trip of "looking things over." The animal is not much on speed, his record being a mile in fourteen minutes, but the novelty of riding
the hog pleases Mr. Nelson.

Automatic Cut-Off.

One of the most ingenious of recent inventions is a simple device to prevent steamship propellers from "racing" when there is a heavy sea running. If the waves run high and the ship tosses the propellers often are entirely out of water when the ship's nose is down, and consequently the engines race wildly. The old remedy for this condition was to have an engineer
turn off the steam just as the propellers were rising out of the water, and turn the steam on again as the propellers returned to the sea. (The new invention consists of a little tube partially filled with mercury that flows back and forth with the tossing of the ship.
This tube can be so adjusted that it will turn the steam off just as the vessel kicks her propellers in the air, and turn it on again when they are due to strike the water.

Such a Shock.

First Messenger Boy—I had to take a pretty tough wire up to that Kildey girl on de ave dis mornin'. Railway smash an' a lot of her folks badly hurt. She made me stay for de reply while she read it.

Second Messenger Boy—Did she faint?

"None."

"Scream?"

"None."

"What did she say?"

"She said: 'What do you know about that?'"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Gigantic Breed.

A woman at a recent dog show noticed a pretty girl gazing around as if puzzled. She went over to her and said: "Pardon me, but can't you find the kennel you wish? If not, I shall be glad to assist you."

"Oh, thank you," she replied, "Would you mind showing me where they are exhibiting the ocean grayhounds?"—

Growing in Favor.

The water from the well located on the farm of Luther H. Smithson, near Church Hill, is growing in favor
every day. The most obstinate cases of indigestion, constipation
and stomach trouble are yielding to the medical qualities of this water by a few days use. Probably half the people who say they have "heart trouble" have nothing but indigestion, sometimes manifestly in an acute form. Try the water from Mr. Smithson's well for a few days and test its virtues for yourself. He delivers it your home at 12½ cents a gallon.

Among the many who are using it with beneficial effects we mention:
Flem Clardy, Muncey Moss, Roy

IMAGINATION IS GREAT THING

Doctor Who Had Been Attending Old Woman Overlooked Most Important Part of Treatment.

Dr. Edward Sanger, who has abandoned his post as assistant to a celebrated Chicago specialist because he dislikes the latter's methods, said in New York:

"We should not announce cures unless they are real cures. Imagination plays too great a part in a patient's feelings.

"Imagination must always be reckoned with in medicine—sometimes as a friend, sometimes as a foe. I know a doctor who treated an old woman for typhoid, and on each visit he took her temperature by holding a thermometer under her tongue. One day, when she had nearly recovered, the doctor did not bother to take her temperature, and he had hardly got 100 yards from the house when her son called him back.

"'Mother is worse,' said the man.
'Come back at once.'"

"The doctor returned. On his entry into the sick room the old woman looked up at him with angry and reproachful eyes.

"'Doctor,' she said, 'why didn't you give me the jigger under me tongue today? That always done me more good than all the rest of your trash.'"

—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

NOT HER.

Salesman—Maybe your wife would like songs without words.

Mr. Henpeck—Say, she doesn't like anything without words.

Real Sufferers.

"I understand Mr. and Mrs. Poddery ly are thinking of separating."

"What's the trouble?"

"It seems that Mr. Poddersly believes in a system of oriental philosophy which is quite different from a system of oriental philosophy believed in by Mrs. Poddersly."

"If that's the cause of their disagreement, they ought to be given a divorce
for the sake of their neighbors."

Lawyer's Choice.

A Judge and Joking lawyer were conversing about the doctrine of transmi-gration of the souls of men into animals. "Now," said the judge, "suppose you and I were turned into a horse and an ass, which would you prefer to be?"

"The ass, to be sure," replied the lawyer.

"Why?" asked the judge.
"Because I have heard of an ass heing a judge, but a horse, never."

Exchange of Courtesies.

"This man who wants board or credit claims to be a foreign nobleman."

"Show you any proof?" asked the proprietor.

"Showed me a photograph of a castle."

"Well, I have no objection to you showing him a photograph of a har-sandwich."

Thrift.

Father—Young Dobson has asked me for your hand and I have consented.

Daughter—You dear old dad!
Father—So never mind going to the dentist's tomorrow about that crown work. Wait until you are married.

Put on His Mettle.

"I wouldn't want you to marry me
under protest, dear."

"Suppose it was some other fellow who was protesting?"

"Ifa! That's different."

Her Choice.

"So the rich old miser's bride is already a sad wife."

"Yes, but it's not her fault. If she had the chance, she would much prefer to be a merry widow."

Don't Worry—Eat.

Memphis, Tenn.—Mrs. Emma D.

fered misery for nearly eight years,
but since taking Cardui, I am much single meal. I hardly know how to express my gratitude." Don't worry about your symptoms—Cardui strength. Cardui helps you to get

it. Take Cardui, because other

TRICKS OF MEMORY.

Mark Twain told of the pilot who knew every bend, creek, current and shallow in the Mississippi river throughout its whole mighty length, but could not remember what he had had for breakfast. A correspondent of the London Chronicle tells of one man with a memory that apparently collects only figures. He can always remember one's age, even if he forgets the name. He will memorize easily the times of all the trains to a given place, but he generally forgets the platforms from which they start. Recd off to him a column of statistics and he will recite them again a month later without a mistake.

CONSCIENTIOUS EFFORT.

"What's that book you are studying so faithfully?"
"Collection of rube stories," replied Farmer Cornstossel. "Mother thinks I ought to talk a little dialect to amuse the summer boarders."

COSTLY.

Miss Exe—Ah, what a change one little woman can make in a man's life.

Mr. Wye—Yes, and by George, what a heap of change she requires while doing it.

ITS AMOUNT.

She—Hubby, I want some pin money.

He—How much do you want?

She—Enough for a diamond pin will do.

All is Vanity.

"This is a very fine dog, ma'am, and cheap at the price," said the dealer. "I've no doubt of it," she replied; "but I don't care to buy him until I'm sure he matches my new gowns."—Judge.

The dog's achievement was carried out despite the fact that she was the mother of puppies only a few days old when her master died.—From Our Dumb Animals.

A Grim Reminder.

"Doctor," said the desperate heavy weight, "give me something to make me weigh less." "That sort of thing merely makes you dangerously ill." "I don't care if it does." "Very well. But I can't see why you should go to all that trouble merely to make labor a little lighter for your packbearers."

SMITH ON THE WATER WAGON

Mrs. Jones Understood Friend's Husband Was Quite a Bibliomaniac, But Finds He Has Changed.

Lovely lady drifted into a congressional conversation the other afternoon, and Timothy Woodruff told of Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Smith, who lived in a southern city.

Friends in early youth, according to the story of Mr. Woodruff, they met again a few days ago after a separation of several years. In the meantime Mrs. Smith, like her chum, Mrs. Jones, had married. Naturally their talk eventually drifted in that direction.

"By the way, Minnie," was the remark of Mrs. Jones, "I understand that you have been getting married, too. I think I saw something about it in the newspapers."

"Yes," replied Mrs. Smith. "I have been married nearly five years."

"Is it really so long as that?" returned Mrs. Jones. "I have been married six years. I understand your husband is quite a bibliomaniac."

"Oh, no, not any more," was the prompt rejoinder of Mrs. Smith. "He used to be, but he is on the water wagon now."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

"What are you puzzling about?" "I'm writing a sketch for vaudeville on the current political situation."
"Well, you ought to have plenty of good stuff to put in." "That isn't what puzzles me. I've got so much good stuff I don't know what to leave out."

PHILIPPINE TRADE

Imports From United States by Islands Show Increase.

Large Gain Is Shown in Cotton Goods, the Sale of Which Almost Doubled as Compared With Previous Similar Period.

Washington. — During the nine months ending with March last the value of the imports from the United States into the Philippine Islands was $19,468,592, or 44 per cent. of the total importations, which amounted to $43,817,234.

The increase of 6 per cent. in imports over the previous corresponding period was due almost wholly to increased importations from the United States.

Official statistics of the foreign commerce of the Philippines, compiled by the bureau of insular affairs, show also that this country figured in the Philippine export trade to the amount of $16,837,116, or 39 per cent. of the total value, as against $15,616,867 for the same period of the previous year.

"Among the articles imported into the islands from the United States," says a statement from the insular bureau, "cotton goods showed the most marked increase, the value during the latter period being $5,189,464, as against $2,991,036 during the former, an increase of more than 90 per cent."

"The total value of cotton cloths imported into the islands during the nine months ending March, 1913, was $8,625,896, as compared with $6,880,332 during the previous year."

"Other commodities which figured in the increase in importations were wheat, flour, automobiles, machinery, mineral oils and rice."

"The increase in the value of rice importations was due entirely, however, to the higher prices, as the quantity imported was slightly less than during the previous year. The only notable decrease was in the imports of cattle."

"The United States purchased hemp from the islands to the value of $10,018,570, an increase of $4,353,715 over the same period for the previous year. Approximately 80,000,000 cigars, with a value of $1,708,293, were exported to this country, which represents a material increase. There was a reduction in the value of sugar and copra exportations, particularly to the United States, due principally, however, to reduced prices rather than to reduced production."

TO INVESTIGATE ELECTRICITY DANGERS.

Experts in the United States bureau of standards are now making plans for an investigation of the dangers to life and property from electricity provided for in the amendment to the appropriation bill of the last congress introduced by former Representative James M. Cox, now governor of Ohio. This investigation will be started during the coming summer and the work will be conducted by Dr. E. B. Rosa and his assistants of the bureau of standards, under the direction of Dr. S. W. Stratton.

This study of methods of safeguarding life is looked forward to by electrical men to produce results in the line of human conservation more important than any other work of the government to lessen industrial accidents, except perhaps the investigations to make less hazardous the work of men engaged in mining and the interstate commerce commission's railway safety investigations.

With the rapid increase in the use of electricity as a force of production and transportation and for purposes of lighting and heating there has been a marked increase during late years in the number of lives lost and persons injured by electric shock. While reliable figures are not available, it is shown throughout the country each week in electrical accidents, and it is also known that the number of accidents could be greatly lessened if safety measures now in use in some places could be standardized and generally adopted.

LEADS IN SUGAR CONSUMPTION.

The per capita consumption of sugar in the United States is 76.9 pounds a year, according to the latest statistics compiled by the government experts. Americans need not believe that they are the most sweet-toothed people, however, for in the United Kingdom the per capita consumption is said to be 86.49.

These are some of the statistics contained in a report by F. J. Sheridan, commercial agent of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, made public by Secretary of Commerce Redfield.

The United States is the greatest sugar consuming country in the world, according to the report. It consumes annually almost one-fifth of the entire amount of sugar produced in the world. In 1909-10 it consumed 3,285,771 long tons, as compared with 1,707,956 tons by the United Kingdom, 1,199,389 tons by Russia and 1,116,315 tons by Germany, all other countries consuming less than 1,000,000 tons each. The per capita consumption of the United States in the same period was 79.9 pounds, which was the highest except that of the United Kingdom, which had an apparent per capita consumption of 86.49 pounds, due to the large amounts used in fruit canning and preserving for export.

INTERESTED IN HOME TEAM

Argument as to Object of Fans at Baseball Game Is Ended With a Rush and Yell.

"I tell you," the man with the goat was saying, as there came a slight lull in the game, "what brings the fans here is the certainty that they're going to see a good game of ball. They want their own team to win, of course, but it's the fine play that—"

"Bosh!" interrupted the man with the white hair and black eyebrows; "they don't care a darn about the fine play. All they want is to see the home team win. I've seen them applaud the other team's errors when they helped to—"

"Rot!" They cheer a brilliant play, no matter which side makes it. There are 20,000 people here today, not because they are stuck on seeing their own side win, but because—

Just then everybody rose to his feet, uttered a wild yell, and began a rush for the outside.

Only one man was out, and a sure striker was at the bat—

But the man on third had sneaked in with the winning run. The home team had won.

Wifely Sarcasm.

"Mr. Bibbles, just managed to get the front door open. As he steered somewhat uncertainly toward the stairs he tripped on a toy train belonging to his little son and measured his length on the floor."

Mrs. Bibbles rushed down the stairs, having been awakened from her slumbers by the noise of Mr. Bibbles' fall. "Are you hurt, dear?" she asked her lord.

"Nope, m'dear," answered Mr. Bibbles, looking up at her stupidly as he lay on the floor. "Not 'tall, m'dear. And just because I happened to take one too many, don't call me down."

"Umph!" exclaimed Mrs. Bibbles. "It appears to me that you are already down."

"What have you done about currency reform?"

"Well," replied the man who is always cheerful, "we've arranged to have it washed and have some elegant new designs; which is surely something toward making the currency pure and beautiful."

Game Laws.

NEW WRINKLES FOR WRITERS

Modern Novelists Must Avoid All Such Commonplace Expressions as "He Said" and "She Said."

It is reported that the latest fashion in story writing eliminates the "he said" and the "she said" entirely, and it is added that publishers and editors give the preference to those writers who can avoid these commonplaces of the old-fashioned standard authors in the greatest variety of ways. For instance, the new style will go something like this:

"Deresford," she cooed. He did not heed her. He was in one of his black moods. The French clock on the mantel struck 3. It was 7 o'clock.

"Girl," he hissed retrospectively. She was by his side in a moment. "Mon ange," she thickly articulated. "Was Biffaki bere today?" he brutally intimated.

"Not today," she intermittently enunciated. "Tomorrow." He comprehended her stammering confusion.

"So this is the way you keep the faith?" he boarsely satirized. Her head drooped. The chance shot had gone home. He stared at her unseeing. Then ripping a handful of slats from the tawdry gilt chair he flung them savagely at the fauteuil.

"This is the end," she staccatoed as she lifted the tiger rug by its fluffy tail.

"Sainted Toner, how I suffer!" he moaned morosely. Then hastily drawing off one of his riding boots he reversed it and a huge pebble, clattered to the inlaid floor. Resuming the boot he blindly crashed through the high French windows and turned the nearest corner.

For a bitter half-hour she stood where she had fallen and awaited his return.

"Gone!" she convulsed.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

USEFUL ANIMAL

Mr. Nelson, a western farmer, possesses a gentleman hog for which he has refused several hundred dollars. The hog is broken to the saddle and his owner rides him around the farm on his daily trip of "looking things over." The animal is not much on speed, his record being a mile in fourteen minutes, but the novelty of riding the hog pleases Mr. Nelson.

Automatic Cut-Off.

One of the most ingenious of recent inventions is a simple device to prevent steamship propellers from "racing" when there is a heavy sea running. If the waves run high and the ship tosses the propellers often are entirely out of water when the ship's nose is down, and consequently the engines race wildly. The old remedy for this condition was to have an engineer turn off the steam just as the propellers were rising out of the water, and turn the steam on again as the propellers returned to the sea. The new invention consists of a little tube partially filled with mercury that flows back and forth with the tossing of the ship. This tube can be so adjusted that it will turn the steam off just as the vessel kicks her propellers in the air, and turn it on again when they are due to strike the water.

There was a general rough time Saturday night on the Clarksville rike, near the farm of John Renshaw, among the colored population. It is said about thirty pistol shots were fired. Governor Chafin, a son of John Chafin, a colored undertaker, was shot, but not seriously injured. Two young negro boys were arrested, but were turned loose. Sunday deputy sheriff Herbert Johnson arrested Lucian Jones, a colored man whose home is at Masonville, on the charge of shooting Chafin. Jones was put in jail to await his trial before Judge Knight. The same night Howard Majors, a negro boy, was shot in the leg by an unknown negro in the road in the same locality.

BOUND TO WIN IN THE END

Inez Milholland Confident of Victory
for British Suffragists, and Points Moral With Story.

"You think the militants won't win in England? You think governmental repression will put them down? Well, then, you haven't digested the story of the satrap."

The speaker was Miss Inez Milholland, the beautiful suffragist of New York. She continued:

"A certain satrap had a favorite wife. She went walking in the palace gardens one day, and had not been long gone when a servant entered, crying:

"O, master, your wife is drowned. She was walking, as usual, beside the swift stream that flows through the hazel copse, and, stumbling over an exposed root, she fell into the water. Not once did she rise. We have not yet recovered her body."

"The satrap, a man of few words, quickly ordered that a strong horse be saddled, and, mounting the animal, he proceeded to ford his way upstream."

"He had not gone more than a mile beyond his own domain when an official respectfully asked him his errand."

"My wife," the satrap replied, "was drowned in this river, and I am searching for her body."

"But, sire," cried the official, "you are going against the stream. You'll never find her that way!"

"Ah," said the satrap, "you didn't know my wife."

"Surely you thanked Mr. Brown," she persisted.

Still no answer. Trouble showed on the little face.

"Teddy, listen. You ought to have said, 'Thank you, sir.' Did you?"

No answer yet.

"Come here, dear little son. Tell mamma, now. Did you thank Mr. Brown for the quarter?"

"I told him, 'Thank you,' an' he said not to mention it, an' I tried not to."

FEW REMINDERS OF DICKENS

Places and Characters of London
Which Great Novelist Made Famous
Are Vanishing Fast.

The day for studying the London of Dickens has gone by. The last ten years have completely wiped away the familiar signposts of Dickens' land.

The Dickens lover used to find pleasure in showing people where Bill Sikes and Nancy roamed, where Oliver Twist held forth and Mr. Pickwick and his devoted followers gave ground for the world's merriment; but even the old streets have disappeared and new ones have come in their place, running sometimes in opposite directions.

There is more of Thackeray's Georgian London than of Dickens' Victorian, though even the old Georgian era has been dented and buckled terribly by the modern flat and giant hotel.

It is only a few years ago since one saw Dickens' characters at every turn in the by-streets of London. But they are very rare nowadays and when they do appear they attract attention in the light of echoes of by-gone days. And it could not be otherwise.

GOLD BURIED 2,500 YEARS.

Gold, 2,500 years old, was recently found at Eberswede, a little town about an hour's journey north of Berlin, Germany. In an earthenware vessel, a few inches high, 78 articles made of massive gold, and consisting of bracelets, drinking cups, rings, etc., have been found. Considering the length of time they have been buried, they are in an excellent state of preservation. One learned specialist declares that they are the work of the early Germanic inhabitants of the district. Another holds that they are decidedly of Phoenician origin, and reminds us that these enterprising traders penetrated into the interior of Germany from the Baltic more than 2,500 years ago.

WELL DRUGGED.

A doctor was summoned to a police station to examine an unconscious prisoner. The prisoner, very muddy and disheveled, lay on the floor of the cell. The physician bent over and examined him, and then, rising said, in a loud, stern voice:

"This man's condition is not due to drink. He has been drugged."

A policeman turned pale, and said, in a timid, hesitating voice:

"I'm afraid you're right, sir. I drugged him all the way—a matter of a hundred yards or more."

"I see where one baseball man gave another one a hard wallop."

"Yes; that was a base hit."

GEORGE ADE "VILLAGE SAGE"

Fred Kelly, Humorist, Most Cruelly
Shatters the Story Teller's Bucolic Dream.

Fred Kelly, the Washington humorist, visited New York the other day. He fell in with a party of other literary lights. They began to discuss men and things. By and by the conversation turned on George Ade.

"He lives the ideal life," said one. "He has enough money to secure every luxury, he need not work except when inspiration comes and he is looked up to by every one in his community."

Those present nodded their heads solemnly.

"What one of us," demanded the speaker, passionately, "would not give up the bustle and hurry of this frantic city if in return we might be certain of the meditative quiet of a small and restful community. How beautiful are the days of the village sage!"

Silence for a time. Then Kelly drawled:

"Do you think there's such a h— of a demand for sages?"

PHRASE PROVED AN OLD ONE

Sultan of Turkey Known as the "Sick Man of Europe" in the Seventeenth Century.

Now a collector of old prints comes forward with the proof that the expression, "the sick man of Europe," so persistently applied for years to Turkey, really dates back to the seventeenth century, when John Sobieski drove back the Turks from the gates of Vienna. He shows an old engraving with the Turk on his sick bed in the center and the doctors representing all the nations of Europe gathered about him. As has been the case ever since, they cannot agree as to the treatment. All want to make an end of the Turk; but the Spaniard wishes to apply a bomb, the Pole wishes to give him steel, the Prussian would stifle him with his cloak, etc. Change the names and costumes of the doctors, and this cartoon of nearly three centuries ago would answer for any of the numerous congresses that have since then attempted to settle the vexing eastern question.

FARMER PLANTING THISTLES.

While farmers elsewhere are working overtime to kill off and stamp out the Russian thistles, E. O. Stuart, a Grant county farmer, is planting them.

"I made a fair test of the thistles last winter along with kafir, cane and prairie hay, and I am strong for the thistle for cattle forage," declared Mr. Stuart. "The thistles are cut and fed before they get hard stickers on them, and the cattle like them as well as on them."

Mr. Stuart is preparing acres of land for thistle as a feed chop, disking and cross-harrowing and then sowing the thistle seed.—New York Sun.

JUST WHAT IS A "SNOB?"

There is probably no connection between a cobbler, sometimes called a snob, and the slang word "snob" used of a low fellow trying to push himself into the society of his betters. At the universities it is used to be common to speak of a "nob," from nobilis filius, a young nobleman or sometimes a college man. The letter "s" having a negative, or privative force, added to "nob," making the word "snob," would thus mean a disnoble, or ignoble mere townsman, as contrasted with the sons of colleges, or gowmsmen. Hence it crept into use as meaning anyone ignoble from birth or breeding.

HAD HIM THERE.

"You say we people who indulge in debate are slow," said Mr. Longwood, with a grin.

"That is my opinion."

"Well, you are wrong. The Panama canal itself won't be open till 1915. Debate on the subject of tolls has been wide open for some time."—Washington Sunday Star.

VOLUMES BEYOND ALL PRICE

First Folios of Shakespeare's Writings Jealously Guarded by Their Fortunate Owners.

There appear to have been five hundred copies of the Shakespeare first folio printed, of which about two hundred are known to have survived. Of these, fewer than twenty are in perfect state, while about one hundred and sixty copies have sustained serious damage at various points. The value of the four early folio editions of Shakespeare is partly determined by their pedigrees. The duke of Leeds owns a first folio on which two former owners, Charles Killigrew and William Congreve, have inscribed their names. Garrick's first folio is in the library of Queen's college, Oxford. Sir Henry Irving possessed a second folio which had belonged successively to Lewis Theobald, the greatest of all Shakespeare's textual critics, Doctor Johnson and Samuel Ireland. In South Kensington museum there is a third folio adorned with a curious collection of autographs. At the top of the title page is the signature of Leigh Hunt, and on other portions are the signatures of Charles Dickens, Robert Browning, William Wordsworth, Charles Knight and George Henry Lewes.

MIGHT YET FULFILL PROMISE

Improbable Possibility Put Forth by Lawyer Won the Case for the Defendant.

Mr. Justice Byles was, when at the bar, noted for his astuteness in advocacy. On one occasion he was for the defendant in an action for breach of promise of marriage. The plaintiff proved the promise to marry, and that the defendant had married some one else. The question seemed a matter of damages, but Byles put two questions to the plaintiff:

"Did not he propose to marry you when his father was dead?"

"Yes."

"Is his father dead?"

"No."

"That is my case, my lord," said Byles.

"But, Brother Byles," said the judge, "he has married somebody else."

"Well, my lord," said Byles, "his wife may die before his father or afterward, and he may outlive them both, when it will be time to fulfill the promise."

The defendant won his case.—London Tit-Bits.

ONLY ONE EXPLANATION.

A milkman in a country town not far from New York, was brought before the local court to answer a charge of adulteration of milk.

"You are charged," said the judge, "with a most serious offense, of selling adulterated milk. Have you anything to say in answer to the charge?"

"Well, your worship," answered the milkman, "the night before it was raining very hard and the only cause I can give is the cow must have got wet through."—Harper's Weekly.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK EDITION OF THE NEW YORK WORLD

Practically a Daily at the price of a Weekly.

No Other Newspaper in the World Gives So Much at So Low a Price.

This is a time of great events and you will want the news accurately and promptly. The Democrats, for the first time in sixteen years, will have the Presidency and they will have the Presidency and they will also control both branches of Congress. The political news is sure to be of the most absorbing interest.

There is a great war in the Old World, and you may read of the extinction of the vast Turkish Empire in Europe, just as a few years ago you read how Spain lost her last foot of soil in America, after having ruled the empire of half the New World.

The World long since established a record for impartiality, and anybody can afford its Thrice-A-Week edition, which comes every other day in the week, except Sunday. It will be of particular value to you now. The Thrice-A-Week World also abounds in other strong features, serial stories, humor, markets, cartoons; in fact, everything that is to be found in a first class daily.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD'S regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and the Hopkinsville Kentuckian together for one year for $2.65.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $3.00.

MAKE APPEAL TO SCIENTISTS

Men of Learning Must Come Forward With Highly Colored Insect That Will Subdue Cotton Pest.

With the confidence of scientists who stoop, grub and study we have come to learn many things about the lowly of the earth. On the principle that everything living may be dangerous, a useful theory has been developed by which the enemy of crops may be fought by the more valiant of his division. The particular enemy that has needed a sound licking is the boll weevil, which emaciates and destroys the cotton growth. To fight this pest the learned entomologists imported some beetles from Guatemala, where Gen. Lee Christmas has spread the hostile spirit through all grades of antagonism. There was something wrong with conditions of climate for the alien beetles, however, and the boll weevil proceeded scornfully with his work of devastation. Now there is a new boll weevil which is assailable through another weakness; it is the pink boll weevil of Hawaii, a highly colored invader, confident, but to be subdued. How cocky is the party of assault when it is colored pink! The scientists may immediately produce a purple beetle of equal deadliness and work to the confusion of pink and purple.

SURE CURE FOR SNAKE BITE

Pasteur Institute at Paris Reports Discovery of Toxin That Has Proved Its Value.

It is stated that about 20,000 persons are bitten annually by the cobras of India, and until a short time ago these bites were generally fatal, but the discovery of an antitoxin has been the means of cutting down the number of deaths very materially. The same statement applies to the several hundred which are bitten each year by the poisonous snakes of this country. The discovery of this remedy was due to the activities of the Pasteur Institute in Paris. Dr. Raymond Dittmars, curator of the reptile department of the New York zoological garden, has been handling and hunting snakes for 20 years, and has never been bitten, and in his recollection only three cases of snake bite have been called to his attention in New York, and as these were within recent times they were all cured by the antitoxin, which is always kept on hand at the New York Pasteur Institute.

MADE NO DIFFERENCE.

Two women, mutually confiding their grouches. One woman, a sweet little soul; the other, a self-assertive body.

"You can't think how this high cost of living affects us," confessed the one. "Why, my bills for clothes alone are more than twice as large this year as they were last year."

"Mercy!" gasped the other. "I don't see how your husband can afford it!"

"That's the answer—he can't," rebutted the first. "But he couldn't afford it last year. So what's the difference?" — Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

POSITIVE PROOF.

"That man in making his millions had an absolutely clean record."

"Are you sure of that?"

"Couldn't be more so. He made it in soap."

PAW KNOWS EVERYTHING.

Willie—Paw, why do they say that all the world is a stage?

Paw—Because those who can't get in the spot light act as critics, my son.

EXCEPTIONS.

"There is no royal road to success."

"Yes, there is, if you have something which draws a good royalty."

HAD IT LOCATED.

"Which tooth are you going to have pulled, Sam?"

"Upper six, sir," answered the Pullman porter.

PARCEL POST.

"Mail heavy this week, Hiram?"

"It is that," responded the rural postmaster. "Two grindstones and a posthole digger, by gosh!"

SURE.

Stude—Don't you ever sweep under the carpet?

Janitor—Yessuh; I always sweeps everything under the carpet.

NEW REMINDERS OF DICKENS

Places and Characters of London Which Great Novelist Made Famous Are Vanishing Fast.

The day for studying the London of Dickens has gone by. The last ten years have completely wiped away the familiar signposts of Dickens' land.

The Dickens lover used to find pleasure in showing people where Bill Sikes and Nancy roamed, where Oliver Twist held forth and Mr. Pickwick and his devoted followers gave ground for the world's merriment; but even the old streets have disappeared and new ones have come in their place, running sometimes in opposite directions.

There is more of Thackeray's Georgian London than of Dickens' Victorian, though even the old Georgian era has been dented and buckled terribly by the modern flat and giant hotel.

It is only a few years ago since one saw Dickens' characters at every turn in the by-streets of London. But they are very rare nowadays and when they do appear they attract attention in the light of echoes of by-gone days. And it could not be otherwise.

SEEKING HELP

"How are you at picture puzzles?"
"Pretty fair."
"Maybe you can put together these forty-odd parts I have taken out of my automobile."

GOLD BURIED 2,500 YEARS.

Gold, 2,500 years old, was recently found at Eberswede, a little town about an hour's journey north of Berlin, Germany. In an earthenware vessel, a few inches high, 78 articles made of massive gold, and consisting of bracelets, drinking cups, rings, etc., have been found. Considering the length of time they have been buried, they are in an excellent state of preservation. One learned specialist declares that they are the work of the early Germanic inhabitants of the district. Another holds that they are decidedly of Phoenician origin, and reminds us that these enterprising traders penetrated into the interior of Germany from the Baltic more than 2,500 years ago.

WELL DRUGGED.

A doctor was summoned to a police station to examine an unconscious prisoner. The prisoner, very muddy and disheveled, lay on the floor of the cell. The physician bent over and examined him, and then, rising, said, in a loud, stern voice:

"This man's condition is not due to drink. He has been drugged."

A policeman turned pale, and said, in a timid, hesitating voice:

"I'm afraid ye're right, sir. I drugged him all the way—a matter of a hundred yards or more." — Weekly Telegraph.

SURE OF ACQUITTAL.

Magistrate—The case against you looks pretty dark, Mr. Johnson.

Mr. Johnson—That's all right, judge. I kin prove an albino.—Puck.

ONE OF THE NUMBER.

Jones—Does he belong to the four hundred?

Smith—Yes; he's one of the ciphers.—Illinois Siren.

MADE BY DISSOLUTION.

Mantell—I had no idea that Banks was worth more than ten millions.

Dunlop—He wasn't until the government dissolved his trust.

HIS STATUS.

"My good woman, is your son an adolescent?"

"No'm; he's a cart driver."

ITS KIND.

"I see where one baseball man gave another one a hard wallop."

"Yes; that was a base hit."

CARDS HAD PREDICTED TRUL

Foretold Good Fortune Coming to New York Woman, and the Next Day It Came.

For fifteen years Mrs. Nellie Cousins told her fortune with cards, never losing confidence in their efficacy. For fifteen years she went about her employment in stores in order to help her husband maintain their little home.

At night after her work was cleared away she went back to the faithful old deck of cards. Sometimes the cards ran good for her, sometimes not. But when she turned up the five and ten of diamonds six times in succession on a recent Sunday night she was overjoyed.

"Our fortune is going to change," she told her husband, according to the New York Sun. "I know it is. The cards tell me so and the cards do not lie."

Confirmation was not long delayed. A special delivery carrier came knocking at her door the following Monday morning. Mrs. Cousins took the letter. It was from an attorney in Philadelphia. It told her she was heir to the $15,000 estate of Mrs. Carrie Drexel, Philadelphia, an aunt.

Mrs. Cousins, who is sixty years old, had not heard from her aunt in fifteen years.

She put the letter aside and went to her work. She will finish out the week despite the fact that the fortune is enough to keep her in comfort the rest of her life.

FRIENDLY TIP

"My husband always is the severest critic of the gowns I wear."
"Well, judging from what I have heard, he has to go some if he is."

WOULD WORK BOTH WAYS.

"There's no logic in love," said Dr. H. Mitchell Wilson, the Denver eugenicist, as he drank in the self-improvement air of an Atlantic City pier.

Dr. Wilson, gazing absently at a school of porpoises tumbling in their graceful way in the blue and sunlit water, chuckled and continued:

"Two young people sat on the beach the other night. Moonlight whitened the sand. The sea in the moonlight was like frosted silver. The young girl, mystically beautiful beneath those calm rays, said:

"How do you know I can make you happy?"

"Because," groaned the young man, 'you make me so miserable.'"

PROPER PLACE.

"Where are you going, my daughter?"

"I am going to where you said they had those wash sales to get a tub suit."

SUSPENDED ANIMATION.

"I'm tired of life."

"In that case, why don't you spend the summer in the country, old chap?"

ITS LOCATION.

"Pop, will you tell me one thing?"

"Yes, son. What is it?"

"Are the teeth of a gale ever found in the mouth of a river?"

ALL SHE GOT.

"She married him for a home?"

"Did she get it?"

"No. The best he could provide is a five-room flat on the sixth floor."

ONLY RELIEF.

"I shouldn't cry if I were you, little man."

"Must do sunning; I bean't old enough to swear."—Punch.

CONTRARIWISE.

"What a tall man Jaggsby is."

"Yes, and at the same time he is always short."

SET TROUBLED MIND AT REST

But Miss Busy-Bee Had Great Awakening When She Learned of Youthfulness of "Uncle."

A busy-bee of a woman, who always has time to help out other women, undertook the care of six children for a mother who was compelled by business to spend a day in town—all of them live in the suburbs.
The baby and the next two bits
of things were easy to manage, all
they wanted was to eat and sleep,
but the three boys insisted that they must go fishing. A neighbor boy who had come in to play with them was going fishing, and—

The busy-bee woman was adamant.
She had promised her mamma to take care of them and she didn't intend to have her come home and find them drowned. The boys coaxed and waited and waited, but they might just as well have been butting their three heads against that stone wall
we know about, until—

Until the neighbor boy ran over
home and came back with the good news that his uncle would go with them if Miss Busy-bee would trust her boys to his care.

She was only too glad to! It is always nice to have the dear children
happy, youth is so fleeting, at best,
and, besides, you can't do a thing
with three small boys clamoring around your skirts.

So she fixed up a basket, with bread and butter and cookies for the kids, and a real nice luncheon for the uncle. With the four sandwiches—
two chicken and two ham—and an extra big slice of cake—went a grateful little note from Miss Busy-bee, thanking the gentleman for his kindness to the little boys in her charge.

And they went fishing.
When the mother returned to gather
in her family crop the three littiest were on tap, but the boys were still fishing. And when Miss Busy-bee, knowing how pleased the maternal heart would be to learn that her sons were having a fine day under safe supervision, explained about the uncle,
the mother woman gasped with alarm.
There was a reason.

The neighbor-boy's uncle was just seven years old.

But it turned out all right, thanks to an overworked providence that takes care of children and—the rest of us.

LIKED TO SEE FIREMEN WORK

Pet Crow Regularly Sounds Alarm
Every Morning, Though No Notice is Taken of His Cries.

A pet crow on the farm of Jason Allbright, a southern Illinois farmer,
was taught by the boys to cry "fire."
Recently the barn caught fire and the village fire department was called to the rescue. The crow was greatly excited and managed to connect the presence of the fire ladders with the burning of the barn. The next day

Calls Out the Department.

he flew to the fire house half a mile distant, and surprised the firemen by yelling "Fire! Fire! Fire!" at the top of his voice. Receiving no response to his alarm, he flew sadly home, but now every morning about five o'clock,
he regularly visits the fire house and
with fluttering wings and feathers all aduff he faithfully sounds the alarm

Postal Automobiles.

A system has been established in Germany by which the postal automobiles are made use of to bring relief from the larger cities to smaller ones threatened by fire. Only the larger cities of Germany are supplied with fire-fighting apparatus, and in the event of fire or a serious conflagration happening in one of them located at a distance of more than ten miles from an established fire department, the apparatus will be secured to a postal automobile and drawn to the scene of the fire. The system was recently availed of and valuable assistance rendered to the village of Walsdorf, which would have been wiped out but for the help thus secured.

One Alma Mater for Family.

The University of Kansas has one loyal family of alumni, and they are not in the same condition, as to offspring, that President Eliot deplored in the ranks of Harvard alumni some years ago. Mr. Smith and his wife were graduates in 1876. This spring his 9th of their children, a daughter,
has been her degree at the University of Kansas, as her four brothers and sisters have done the same, in consequence of his sophomore year and graduation in 1915. It has been the policy of the family to send all their children to the University of Kansas,
and the result is that the family has one alma mater.

Texas Woman Near Death.

Wills Point, Tex.—In a letter from Wills Point, Mrs. Victoria Stallings says: "I was afflicted with womanly troubles, had a dreadful cough, and suffered awful pains. I certainly would have died, if I had not been relieved by taking Cardui. Now I am stronger, and in better health than I ever was in my life. I can't say half enough for this great medicine." Do you need relief? Try Cardui for your womanly troubles.
Its long record of successful use is your guarantee. Thousands of ladies have been helped to health and happiness by Cardui. It will surely help you. Try a bottle to-day.

and strengthened the bowels so that they have been regular ever since."

HUMBLE FROG, NOT ENOUGH

Small Beginner in Natural Science
Had His Mind on Production of King of Beasts.

The teacher was serious-minded and very conscientious. The lesson was "The Frog"—the protoplasmic beginnings of froggie being exhibited within a glass jarful of water, which stood upon a table before the class. The room was stuffy and the class in a state of passive resistance to learning
—all except Tommy Hange, aged 7.
Tommy, who up to now had never learned anything if he could possibly help it, sat staring at the glass jar with all his soul in his eyes. Teacher looked at him attentively. Was this a case of the stupid scholar at last coming into his own subject and developing genius? She resolved to concentrate upon Thomas.

"You see this mass of gelatinous substance full of little black dots?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"These black dots are eggs."

Thomas looked incredulous.

"Now, what are they, Thomas?"

"Eggs," replied Thomas, obedient,
though unbelieving.

"Correct. Well, in process of time these eggs are—now, what do you think happens to these eggs in process of time?"

"Come," said teacher. "They are—"

"Bolted," with sudden inspiration.

"No, no," said teacher, hastily;
"they are hatched."

"Hatched," murmured Thomas apologetically.

"Yes, and out come some queer-looking creatures with big heads and flat tails. They are called tadpoles.
Now—very impressively—"the tad-
pole grows, little legs begin to show, gradually the tail vanishes, and what do you think at last comes out of the water?"

"A—duck," Thomas was evidently unable to get away from the poultry
farm.

"Oh, no, Thomas. I will tell you.
A frog. Now, isn't that wonderful?"

Subdued expressions of astonishment from the class and a deep sigh
from Thomas, looking as if he could ask for more information if he dared.
Teacher turned to him kindly.

"You are interested, Thomas?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"That's right. I shall cultivate your taste for nature knowledge. Is there anything you would like me to tell you?"

"Yes, please, ma'am."

"Then you ask," said teacher, much gratified. "Don't be afraid. What do you want to know?"

"Please, ma'am," said Thomas, "I want to know how to do a lion."

Punch.

Cement That Lasts.

In the making of cement modern invention has not surpassed or equalled
the ancients. An exchange, commenting on a recent demolition by soil movement of a small section of Roman wall at Caerwent, in England, says that this is about the only way in which the Roman walls can meet a natural collapse, for practically they are otherwise absolutely enduring.
There are several hundred miles of Roman wall still standing in England.
"The secret of their permanence is the cement. We do not know the method of its composition, but it is far sounder than any modern cement. Indeed, when some part of such a wall as that mentioned has to be dislodged it is necessary to use dynamite. All that we know of Roman cement is that pounded tile forms a considerable element in it. For the rest, Roman walls were built with stone and tile from a cement bottom."

Nice for the Lady.

A volunteer worker in London slams humorously remarks in the Daily Telegraph that the parents of children
there appear to believe that they are generously permitting the wealthier classes to acquire merit by letting them experiment on their children.

Quite regularly a certain school teacher invited two miserable little girls to spend Saturday afternoon at her house. Knowing how overburdened with work the mother was, and how much the children's moral education was neglected at home, a settlement worker ventured to congratulate the parent.

"What a great advantage for them!"
she said. "How exceedingly kind of her!"

"No doubt she's glad of comp'ny," complacently returned the mother.

Beggar Poet.

France possesses a genuine beggar poet in Germain Nouveau, a close friend of Paul Verlaine, who has published a number of ballads and sonnets over the pseudonym "Humilis."
A selection of these issued in book form some years ago was very favorably received. In one of the notices of his work the author was described by a critic who knows him personally
as "a man soured by poverty, who declines to allow his lot to be bettered."
Nouveau lives at Aix-en-Provence, mainly on the alms of the charitable,
and is frequently to be seen on Sundays amid the throng of beggars who line the approach to the cathedral.

Otherwise, a Difference.

A young preacher picked up Bishop Pierce's hat and put it on his head,
and it was exactly a fit.

"Why, bishop," said he, "your head and mine are exactly the same size."

"Yes," replied the bishop, "on the outside."

The Italians resort to a very simple method when they wish to obliterate the injurious effects of salt air and sunshine after a visit to their villas. On the shore of the Adriatic, the Tyrrhenian sea or the lakes. They bathe the face with the white of an egg, well beaten, let it dry on the skin and wash it off in soft water after fifteen minutes. The treatment is repeated three or four times, and always at night just before retiring.
